Once one of Weston-Super-Mare's favourite tourist attractions, the Seaquarium, a building which sits on stilts on the seafront site, has seen an incredible transformation into 'all day dining' venue the Revo Kitchen & Terrace Restaurant and Revo Glo Golf, a UV themed 9-hole mini-golf complex.

This new seafront attraction has received glowing praise from customers for its alfresco dining with stunning views of the Grand Pier and coast beyond.

The 300-seater beach café and restaurant has been specified with high-quality Kestrel Aluminium Folding Sliding Doors around the dining area that maximise the views and create a fresh, airy space that allows natural light to flood in.

The unique folding door system enables the doors to fold flush against each other providing more space for tables and diners. A flush track for the doors offers ease of access and creates a cleaner and neater aesthetic that complements the restaurant's contemporary interior design.

The seafront position means that the restaurant is often subject to severe atmospheric conditions. To ensure long-lasting protection and to help ensure a good lifespan for the doors, all the aluminium frames were Marine Grade anodised to thickness grade AA25. The doors are double glazed throughout, achieving a U-Value of 1.6W/m2K and have high-level PAS24 security with multipoint locking systems.

The main contractor for the project was AGM Services Ltd. Fabrication and installation of the folding Sliding doors was undertaken by Tamworth based WD Group. Kestrel Aluminium Systems worked closely with WD Group's dedicated design team and project manager to ensure design concepts and cost restraints were maintained throughout the successful delivery of the project.
